The saying 'stop and smell the roses' must originate from the New South Wales South Coast. This is a region of Australia truly blessed with incredible beauty. The magic of turquoise blue waters, white sand beaches, and a backdrop of rolling green countryside is simply spectacular.

We start off this trip 120km south of Sydney in the small holiday village of Kiama. We then begin coasting south, stopping in at Nowra and visiting Arthur Boyd's old homestead, and then we head to Jervis Bay and take a stroll along Hyams Beach, world-renowned for its white sand. Batemans Bay, Mogo and Central Tilba are also in our program, followed by a fishing charter in Bermagui, tasting some cheese in Merimbula.

We cap off our trip just before the Victorian border in Eden, where we take a tour through the Killer Whale Museum and learn some fascinating history. This is a brilliant touring route - one you just can't miss!
